

Publications – Julian Fritsch

PhD Thesis

- [1] J. D. Fritsch. “Novel methods for detection and analysis of atypical aspects in speech.” PhD Thesis, EPFL, 2023.

Peer-Reviewed Journals and Conferences

- [2] J. C. Vásquez-Correa, J. Fritsch, J. R. Orozco-Arroyave, E. Nöth, M. Magimai.-Doss. “On Modeling Glottal Source Information for Phonation Assessment in Parkinson’s Disease.” In Proc. Interspeech 2021, pp. 26-30.
- [3] E. Villatoro-Tello, S. P. Dubagunta, J. Fritsch, G. Ramírez-de-la Rosa, P. Motlicek, M. Magimai.-Doss. “Late fusion of the available lexicon and raw waveform-based acoustic modeling for depression and dementia recognition.” In Proc. Interspeech 2021, pp. 1927-1931.
- [4] J. Fritsch, M. Magimai.-Doss. “Utterance Verification-based Dysarthric Speech Intelligibility Assessment using Phonetic Posterior Features.” IEEE Signal Processing Letters, 28:224-228, 2021.
- [5] B. M. Halpern, J. Fritsch, E. Hermann, R. van Son, O. Scharenborg, M. Magimai.-Doss. “An Objective evaluation framework for pathological speech synthesis.” Speech Communication; 14th ITG Conference, pp. 1-5, 2021.
- [6] N. Cummins, Y. Pan, Z. Ren, J. Fritsch, V. S. Nallanthighal, H. Christensen, et al. “A Comparison of Acoustic and Linguistics Methodologies for Alzheimer’s Dementia Recognition.” In Proc. Interspeech 2020, pp. 2182-2186.
- [7] J. Fritsch, S. P. Dubagunta, M. Magimai.-Doss. “Estimating the Degree of Sleepiness by Integrating Articulatory Feature Knowledge in Raw Waveform Based CNNS.” In Proc. ICASSP 2020.
- [8] J. Fritsch, S. Wankerl, E. Nöth. “Automatic diagnosis of Alzheimer’s disease using neural network language models.” In Proc. ICASSP 2019.
- [9] P. Klumpp, J. Fritsch, E. Nöth. “ANN-based Alzheimer’s disease classification from bag of words.” Speech Communication; 13th ITG-symposium, pp. 1-4, 2018.